Dear Andy:

On behalf of the members of the National Association of Clean Water Agencies (NACWA), it gives me great pleasure to congratulate you and the biosolids team at the Camden County Municipal Authority on your successful certification with the National Biosolids Partnership's (NBP) Environmental Management System (EMS) Program.

Since 1997, NACWA and the Water Environment Federation (WEF) with advisory support from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) have set out to create a program of excellence for utilities in the area of biosolids management. The Partnership's EMS program is the first of its kind in this country. The verification of your biosolids EMS through a third-party audit is a major accomplishment for the Authority, and makes you part of an elite group of publicly owned wastewater treatment agencies in the country who have achieved this status.

You are a true leader in the wastewater utility sector and I hope you will share your commitment to enhancing environmental excellence through the NBP EMS program with other municipalities in New Jersey and around the country. Congratulations, again, to you and to all of the dedicated employees at the Camden County Municipal Authority responsible for achieving this great success.

Sincerely,

Ken Kirk
Executive Director
